Election is 'on'

By EVE SILBERMAN
ANP Staff Writer

On Aug. 7, voters in the 21st House District will select Democratic and Republican nominees to face off in the state representative race in November. The winner will represent the district for the next two years.

At the same time, voters also will determine who represents the district for the next four months. The seat has been vacant since the death of Rep. Richard Sullivan in February.

In the latest twist and turn in the confusing 21st District race, the Supreme Court ruled last Thursday that a new special election must be held. Two weeks ago, the Court had thrown out the results of a June 5 special election, stating that the state's newly adapted apportionment plan was illegal.

The reapportionment plan was in violation of the state's constitution, the Court claimed. The Court's ruling means that Michigan must return to its 1982 apportionment plan, which a Democratic-dominated State Legislature revised in December.

The change means that voters will be pulling the lever twice on some candidates.

"This just means more voter confusion," said Democratic candidate Lynn Owen, who got his party's nod in the June 5 special election.

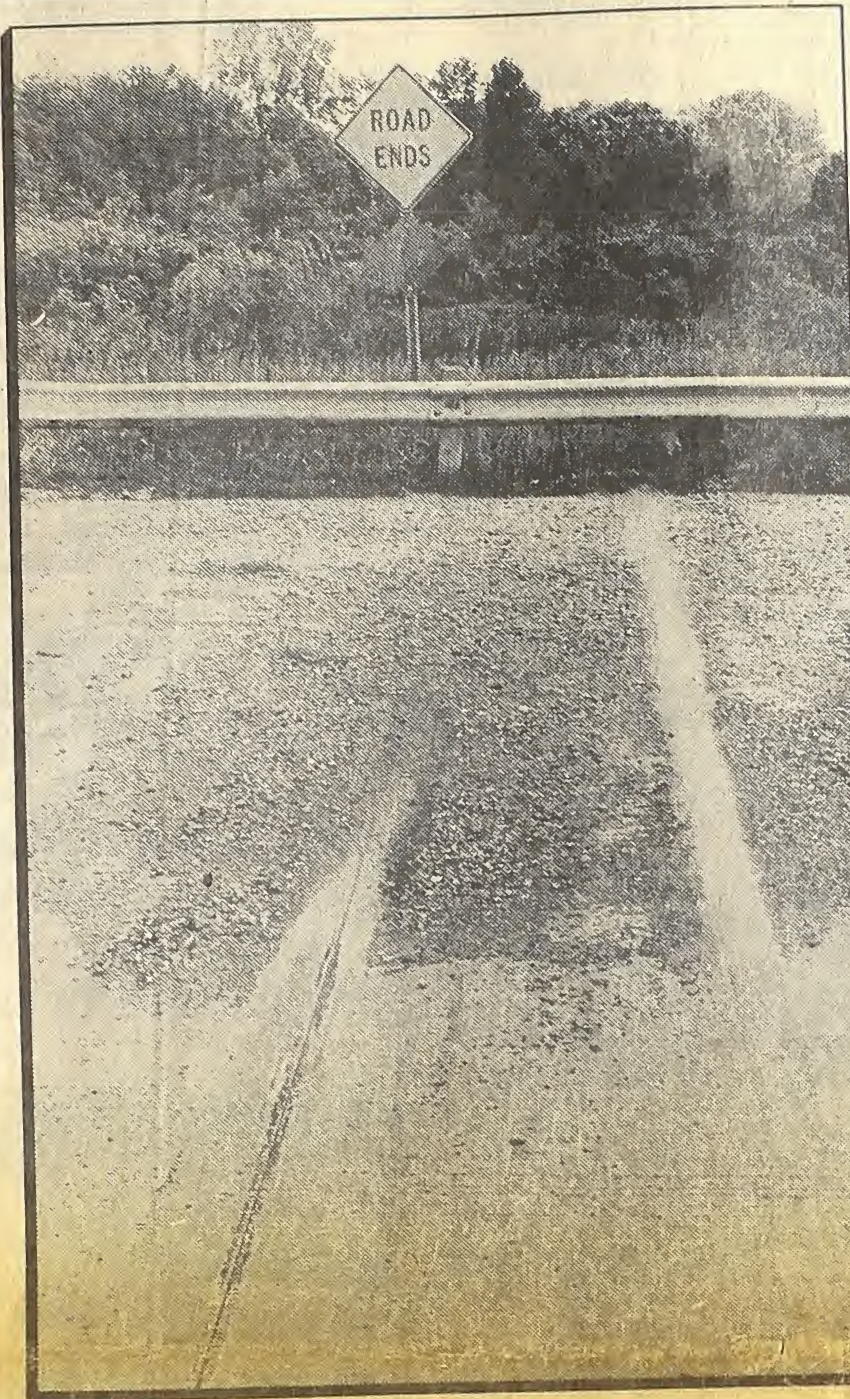

Four candidates filed by the June 27 deadline for the November House election. Sumpter Township Supervisor Jim Reeves, who finished fourth out of five candidates in the voided special election, will face off with Owen in August.

Roy Raker, a Huron Township farmer who won the Republican slot in the special primary, will compete with Monroe businessman James Schmitz for the right to run in November. Schmitz took second place in the Republican race in the special primary.

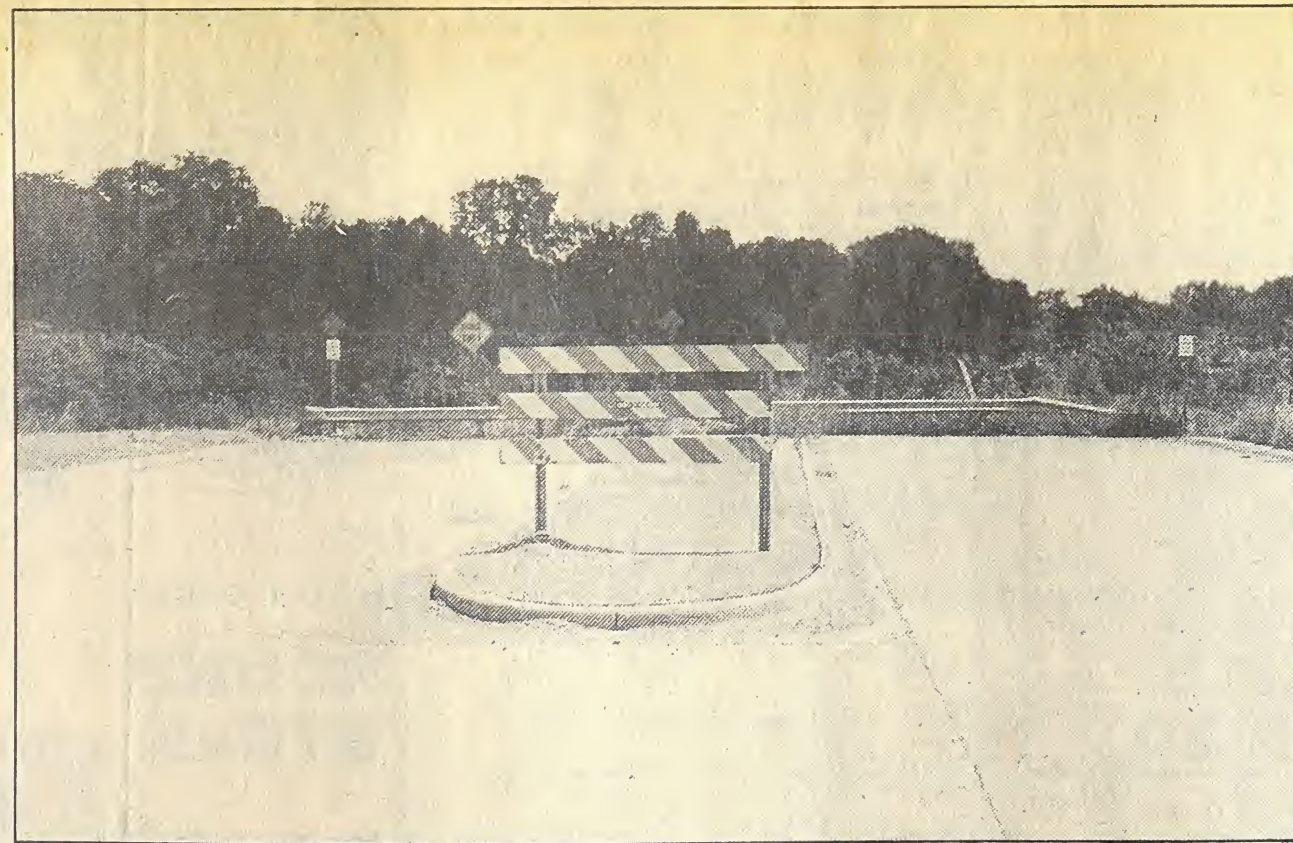

July 5 is the deadline for filing for the special election seat, according to Wayne County election officials.

Wayne County Clerk Ed Killeen said it was uncertain whether individual communities would be reimbursed for the cost of the special election.

"It's up in the air," Killeen said. "The Secretary of State and the legislature will have to decide. I would think something could be worked out."

Road to nowhere

A barrier and warning signs mark the spot where Huron Township officials hope will be an interconnecting roadway between the I-275 expressway and West Road.

Bridging the gap West Road/275 interconnect draws criticism, approval

By STEVE O'LEARY
ANP Staff Writer

Last Wednesday's meeting of the Huron Township Board of Trustees was interrupted as a shouting match ensued between board members and two factions of area residents.

The issue was whether or not the board should sign a resolution supporting a proposed I-275 - West Road east-west corridor that could promote commercial development in Huron Township. The plans reportedly would call for the corridor to extend West Road across the Huron River to connect with the I-275 at the South Huron Road exit.

A letter from the Huron Township Chamber of Commerce, requesting that the board "support the completion of this project." Noted that the east-west interconnect would:

— Reduced mileage for the Huron School District by enabling the school busses to go through the township instead of around it;

— Reduced mileage and shortened response time for fire, police, and rescue squads

"Everything anyone has ever brought up to this community in the 35 years I've lived here that would mean some progress has been refused. We've always had a few people that talk loud and make themselves seen, and things are denied that would be for the larger good."

during emergencies;

— Direct access for those living or doing business east of the river with the western portion of Huron Township and the Downriver communities;

— Provide a route available to commercial traffic that is not hindered by frost laws;

— Provide a route that will promote development in Huron Township and not hinder or place a barrier to that development.

Louise Bosman, a resident of Huron, claimed that the proposed extension would beget traffic problems for the community.

"And remember," she said, "that we were told that when companies look to put in landfills, they look for highways. Sibley Road already serves Downriver — it connects with I-275.

"It's all very noble to try and save money for the schools," Bosman said, adding that "if you want to know where the school budget money is going, I suggest you take a look at the administrators, take a look at some of the highest paid teachers in the nation!"

Some residents, who were afraid that such an extension fused.

"We've always had a few people that talk loudly and make themselves seen and things are denied that would be for the larger good, the good of the community," said Carey, adding that "our federal and state tax dollars will just go to help other cities and townships."

Township Supervisor A.J. Haener stated that "there are enough people sitting at this (board) table that are in favor of this, but seem to lack the intestinal fortitude to do anything about it."

As the discussion turned into a heated argument, local businessman Pete Glaab Jr. claimed that "if we had moved on this two years ago, we wouldn't be having the dumpsite problems we have now," while Haener tried to get back in control of the meeting.

Board member Gary Bates said that as far as he was concerned, "this would better service the community. It's been on the back burner for too long. . . I don't think we should run from it."

Puskar countered by saying that "the Township is in the debt it's in now because we've been looking for ways to pro-

Assessor explains 'no increase'

An open letter to taxpayers:

Final equalization studies have been completed for the 1984 assessment year. I am pleased to report that the Michigan State Tax Commission has, at its May 29 hearing, issued its final order for equalization factors which has resulted in a factor of 1.0000 for all classes of property for the City of Romulus. We will, therefore, see no increase of assessments for any class of property in 1984. Originally, Wayne County Bureau of Taxation projected increases for both Residential and Industrial properties of 5.65 percent and 2.42 percent respectively. Their analysis was based on a two-year study and consideration was not given to creative financing or unusual selling and buying conditions. State Tax Commission guidelines require a two-year average ratio, however, there is a State Tax Commission provision for a 12-month calendar year study.

The 12-month study results can only be used, if it results in a "substantially higher ratio" (lower values), and if requested by the local assessing officer.

I was able to submit a 12-month study using a more conscientious methodology which involved conducting sales verification studies of all sales that occurred throughout 1983, looking for peculiarities and eliminating sales that were not indicative of the market. Examples of this could be a sale involving personal property or the assumption of a low interest mortgage or a myriad number of other reasons.

Through this type of investigation of each and every sale and numerous meetings with county officials, I was able to convince the bureau that this study was accurate and, therefore, should be accepted as the basis for taxation.

Through hard work and using professional abilities, our office has been able to hold assessments at the level they were at in 1983 at a time that the county would propose increases. It is with this type of dedication and professionalism that my staff and myself will endeavor to pursue all legal avenues and opportunities to move the Assessor's Office forward and expand our city's tax base while remaining fair and equitable to the taxpayers of the City of Romulus.

TPL accepts land

Ridding itself of a "hard-to-market" property and helping to support the conservation of environmentally sensitive land at the same time, American Can Company recently donated a 13.46-acre parcel in Romulus to the Trust for Public Land's (TPL's) Investment Lands Program.

The Investment Lands Program accepts the donation of surplus property, such as this parcel near the airport, which was a drain on the corporation because of the costs accrued through maintenance and taxes. Properties such as these are then exchanged, leased or sold by the Investment Lands Program to raise funds to further the work of TPL, a national nonprofit land conservation program.

Russell Walther, Properties and Leasing Manager of the corporation, has found this alternative disposition of "hard-to-market" property attractive.

"Working with the Investment Lands Program has enabled American Can Company to fulfill its philanthropic obligations and eliminate the expensive burden of holding unutilized surplus real estate," he said.

Chamber adopts new apple logo

At the June 20th meeting of the Huron Township Chamber of Commerce, the membership voted to designate the logo designed by James Chapo, of New Boston, as its official standard.

The stylized "H" symbol rises upwards into the form of cradling hands supporting an apple in its palms. The apple ties in the Chamber's support of the local Apple Festival along with its support for business excellence and community pride.

The hands formed by the "H" are tied together not in a form of bondage, but as a symbol of unified community determination. This determination is further represented symbolically by the apple leaf, which sweeps upwards in the form of a positive growth line.

Go camping with Scouts

Camping, swimming, horseback riding, computers, sports and audio-visual production are all available to girls this summer at Camp Linden in Livingston County.

This year Camp Linden, owned and operated by the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council, has added sessions in Computer Fun, which features two hours of instruction per day plus practice time, Studio I, offered to sixth graders and older, who will spend a minimum of five hours a day learning video production, splicing, announcing and the TV technician's job; and Junior Riding is for fourth through sixth graders interested in learning the fundamentals of western riding, horse and tack care. These and other specialty sessions will still offer girls camping, swimming and the usual resident camping activities.

A special session — A Taste of Summer — is being offered girls who have completed first and second grades. This is the first time first and second graders have had the opportunity to attend Camp Linden during the summer. Registration in all other sessions is open to all girls who have finished third through 12th grades.

The costs of a one-week session is $70, a two-week session $140, and A Taste of Summer $30. Some sessions have additional fees. Special camperships are also available. Girls interested in the camping program which runs through Aug. 17 should contact the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council at 483-2370 for a brochure and application form.

Donations needed by RC

With a projected shortage of more than 3,000 units of blood per month during July and August, the American Red Cross Blood Services, Southeastern Michigan Region, is appealing to business, industry and community leaders to sponsor blood drives this summer.

"We're looking for plant managers, corporate presidents, union and community leaders who will support the community's blood supply," explained Gustave Rissman, director of Red Cross Donor Resources Development. "We would like them to come forward with plans to schedule blood drives that have the potential of 50 or more blood donations."

A critical blood shortage could result in the cancellation or postponement of elective surgery. The lack of blood could also have dire consequences in the event of a major disaster.

"If a company or group normally sponsors one or two drives per year, we would encourage an additional blood drive this summer in an effort to alleviate this potentially serious shortage," Rissman continued. "All the company or group has to do is call Red Cross at 833-4440 and ask for me. Our department will work with the coordinator to establish a date for the drive, and we'll assist the coordinator in scheduling donors during the drive."

Donating blood is safe, relatively painless and takes less than 45 minutes, reports a Red Cross spokesperson. Only sterile disposable equipment is used to collect blood, so there is no need to fear contracting AIDS when donating blood. Nor can AIDS be transmitted via donor beds.

Blood can be donated by anyone in good general health who weighs a minimum of 110 pounds and is between the ages of 17 through 65 years old. The procedure takes less than 45 minutes from registration to post donation snack. The actual donation takes less than 10 minutes.

Edison tests disaster plan

At 9:41 a.m. today a General Emergency was declared for Detroit Edison's Fermi 2 Power Plant. This is the most serious emergency classification for a nuclear power plant. Conditions at the plant indicate that a radioactive release is occurring. Radioactive gases are being released and filtered through the plant's standby gas treatment system. The plant is monitoring the release and field teams from the state are tracking the release pathway.

By SUE McDONALD
ANP News Editor

Life went on as normal in Monroe County and the western portion of Wayne County last Wednesday, even though Detroit Edison officials were grappling with an emergency at its Enrico Fermi 2 nuclear power plant.

The near nuclear disaster was the figment of someone's imagination, but a reality for the utility that staged the mock emergency to test its Plant Site Emergency Plan for representatives of the Federal Nuclear Regulatory Agency in preparation for licensing of the facility.

There was no panic, no evauation and no injuries, but for officials representing Wayne and Monroe counties, the State of Michigan and the Province of Ontario there was.

Fermi is scheduled to come on line in December, however, a decision by Edison's Board of Directors may delay its startup until early next year, and while workers prepared for that, Edison officials played out a disaster scenario reminiscent of "The China Syndrome."

The only nuclear power plant being constructed in southeastern Michigan, Fermi, situated on the shores of Lake Erie at Monroe, will provide the utility with a less expensive source of electricity for its 4.7 million customers in that portion of the state.

Fermi has taken more than ten years to construct and is in the final testing stage before receiving an operating license from the NRC.

While Fermi is situated closer to the Michigan-Ohio boarder, than the effects of a possible disaster showed that even as far away as the City of Wayne and Canton Township could be affected by the crisis. Workers at the plant were unaware of what was happening around them. In fact, it was just another work day, but for members of the Joint Public Information Team (JPIT) it wasn't just another day.

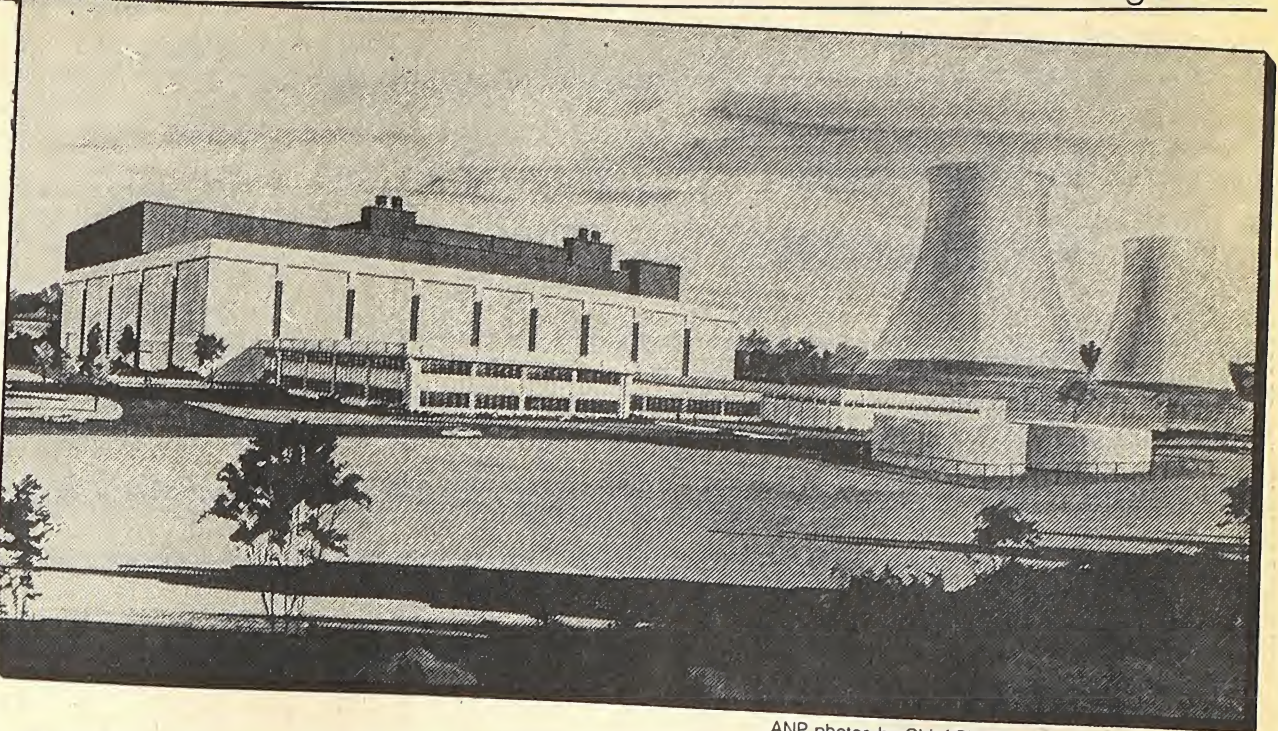

A "series of unrelated events", which reportedly Protective actions for the public are being broadcast by the Emergency Broadcast System (EBS). Governor Blanchard has ordered in-place sheltering in a two-mile radius of the plant. In addition, in-place sheltering to a 10-mile distance from the plant has been ordered for sectors north of the Fermi 2 plant.

occurred the previous afternoon, had forced the utility to shut down the reactor, but not before a puff cloud of radioactive (noble) gases was released into the atmosphere.

Before the test concluded eight hours later, the plant would go from the lowest emergency status of an unusual event to the highest, a general emergency, and residents within a 10-mile radius would be directed to remain in their homes.

Admittedly, the disaster was compressed for the sake of testing, according to Gordon Van Gelder of the Michigan State Police, who chaired JPIT, the body responsible with keeping residents and the media up-to-date on developments at the plant and in the affected area. An actual disaster could, in fact, stretch over a period of days or weeks, much like the near disaster at Three

An artist's conception of the Enrico Fermi-2 nuclear power plant in Monroe

Mile Island in Pennsylvania several years ago, which provided utilities with a lesson in the JPIT expanded its in-place sheltering to a 10-mile radius of the plant.

It was all a test, but according to Thomas Randazzo, Edison's director of Radiological Emergency Response Preparedness, it wasn't to demonstrate the utility's underlying philosophy of keeping the channels of communication open in the event of a disaster.

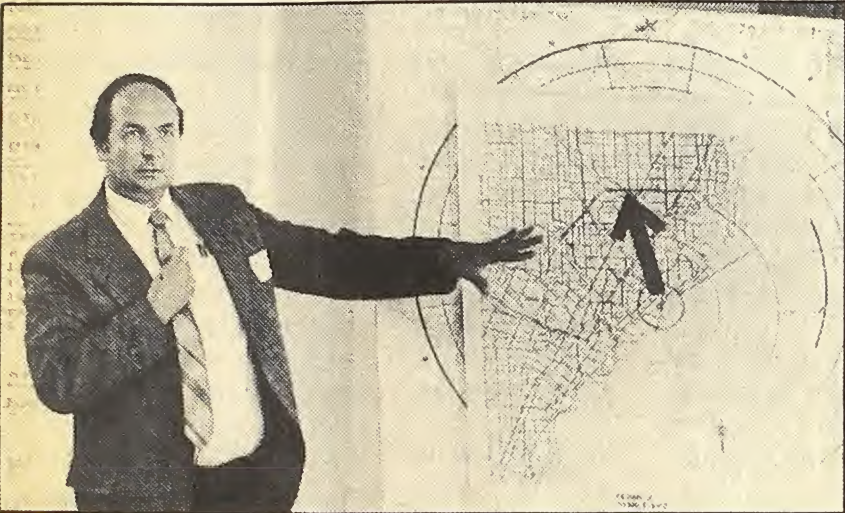

"These plans were written with the underlying philosophy that Detroit Edison will maintain fast and open communication with public officials and the public at all times, and that requires close cooperation with the media," he explained.

Once the plant is operating, the plan calls for prompt alerting of the population within a 10-mile radius of the plant in the event that public action might be necessary. Notification would be accomplished through a network of 31 fixed, electronic sirens. The siren alert is the signal to residents of the area to tune their radios or television sets to the Emergency Broadcast System (EBS).

Conditions at Detroit Edison's Fermi 2 Power Plant near Monroe, Michigan are stable. The plant's reactor is in cold shutdown and the source of the earlier radioactive release was found and repaired.

Radiation levels up to 10 miles from the plant are close to normal background levels.

Dennis Hahn of the Department of Public Health's radiation division briefed members of the media and Federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission representatives on the path of a puff cloud of radioactive gas released from the Enrico Fermi-2 nuclear power plant in Monroe as part of a test of the utility's emergency preparedness plan for the facility.

I-94 news

Mayor Beverly McAnally has voiced a complaint and written to Governor James Blanchard about it; the proposed redesigning of the Merriman Road and I-94 interchange by the Michigan Department of Transportation.

Police log

Significant numbers in the May police department log include five armed robberies, 38 burglaries of residences, four cases of child abuse, five arrested for fraudulent activities, 44 cases of assault and battery, 13 of felonious assault, four suicide attempts and 32 stolen vehicles.

Cole appointed

The City of Romu-

lus has appointed Robert Cole as the Noxious Weed Commissioner. He will take over the state-required duties immediately.

First step

First Step, a very worthwhile crisis center that deals with domestic assault has announced that they are now receiving funding from 15 of the 34 area communities it serves. Romulus is proudly on that list, as it should be, since many residents make use of the center's fine counselors and facilities.

They are currently working on a Speaker's Bureau to help spread word of the organization through presentations to school groups, church groups, police departments, community groups and other interested parties. Anyone interested in finding out more or perhaps volunteering some time to help with one of the most successful (and needed) groups of its kind should call Jane Dewey or Judy McDonald at 525-2230.

First Step offices are located on Farmington Road in Westland. Their motto is "working for homes without violence."

Care care

The city of Romulus has declared open warfare on abandoned and inoperable vehicles. Anyone with a complaint about such a vehicle should contact Ordinance

Hire the handicapped

Finding employment in Wayne County poses a formidable challenge for many able-bodied persons. For handicapped residents, the task often appears insurmountable.

That's what makes the work of Michigan Rehabilitation Services' counselors so critical to the placement of the handicapped in a world which naturally caters to the "normal." Recently the Services' agency sponsored a Job Fair to match the skills of more than 70 handicapped residents of Western Wayne County and the Downriver area with a dozen employers.

Handicappers, including many clients of the Wayne office at 3850 Second St., had interviews for openings as bank tellers, electronic technicians, typists, mail handlers, housekeeping aides, cashiers and other jobs.

These interviews and subsequent hirings became a reality through the efforts of caring employers and staff members of the Rehabilitation Services, a division of the Michigan State Department of Education. Agency counselors assist the handicapped to prepare for and enter the job market by providing medical assistance, aptitude testing, training and placement opportunities.

Of course, such efforts can only produce results with the cooperation of employers who are willing to hire a qualified rehabilitated person. For years the handicapped person was left on the outside looking in on a society accustomed to leaving its handicapped on the sidelines.

Fortunately, such antiquated thinking has been overcome. Since the 1960s more and more handicapped persons have been given the opportunity to succeed in the "normal" world. And they have more often than not proven to be valuable employees in terms of dedication and quality of performance.

The trend to give handicapped persons a fair shot in the job market has continued to grow throughout the past two decades. Yet, we must continue to strive towards an employment atmosphere in which the placement of the handicapped not only is accepted, but encouraged.

We commend those employers who participated in the Job Fair — Barfield Building Maintenance, Bill Knapp's, Dearborn Bank and Trust, Northwest Blue Print and Supply Co., Payless Shoes, Aetna Life & Casualty, Picker International, Taco Bell, Trinity Park West Residential Care Facility, the U.S. Post Office and the Veterans Administration Hospital.

We further ask all employers to consider the hiring of the handicapped whenever feasible. Those wishing to learn more about the placement program can contact Keith Ammon, manager of the Wayne office of Michigan Rehabilitation Services, (telephone number is 722-7431).

According to Ammon, approximately 200 clients in the local suburbs are properly prepared for employment. All they need is a chance to prove themselves in the right opportunity.

Through the concern of agency counselors and employers, the potential of the handicapped continues to be realized. The handicapped thankfully are off the sidelines and into the mainstream, where they always have belonged.

DAVID J. WILLETT
PUBLISHER

Put another nickel in ...

I am normally a man slow to anger . . . but I've had it. They are rude, insulting and cold . . . and those are their good points.

Advertisements promoting them tout "convenient service, accessibility," and all manner of other glorious and grand features. Hogwash!

Sure, they'll give you money — if and when they feel like it, but only if it's yours in the first place. Before they'll give it to you though, they hang onto it for as long as possible so they can earn a few percent interest while they loan it to the Bank of Tokyo. Ask them, though, and they'll tell you that it takes them a few days to "process the transaction." During the process, they have my money, and yours, and you and I can just worry about whether we'll ever see it again.

Their rudeness includes their language . . . short, precise little phrases that translated mean, "Tell me what you want from me and then go away. Their expressions are emotionless, cool and properly calculating. If you push the right buttons, so to speak, you occasionally can walk away feeling satisfied. But more often than not, I feel just plain angry.

They rarely deliver what advertising for them claims they will (unless of course the advertisement appears regularly in this newspaper . . . then of course you can believe every word).

I am, obviously, banking at one of those three-letter banks with the little machines they install for "convenience." The question is, whose? Certainly not mine, I'll tell you. Those diabolical money changers called 24-hour bankers never say anything but "Sorry, this machine not in service," or "Your transaction cannot be completed at this time." Soon, I suspect, they will add "Your money or your life" to their repertoire.

They are programmed to separate you from your money and then hang on to the cash for as long as possible. They are heartless, and antifreeze must pulse through their little copper veins.

Seriously folks, I know on good authority, that God sent these mechanical vermin to be sure we could never forget the money lenders he found in the temple.

And, if being insulting isn't enough, they lie. I deposit money one day and two days later, I innocently ask the machine, "Hey, do you have my money?" They say, "Noooooooooooo — not me, you must have me confused with some other machine."

Well, I'm not taking this sitting down. Mainly because they never provide anyplace at these convenience centers for you to sit down. So, standing up, I say, "Listen you . . . I gave you my money, and you loaned it to a Tokyo bank and I want it. And," I add, "if you didn't loan it to a Tokyo bank, how come you printed my checking balance in yen? Huh, huh, tell me that."

Well, bankers aren't easy. No one would ever claim they were. Their next step is simple. They stall. And we both know the longer this little encounter takes the more interest they are earning off some little Japanese man who borrowed my money for a new rickshaw.

They then throw in a whole new tactic. "I'm so sorry," they croon, "but it takes 10 years for that check written on that foreign bank to clear." Okay, so maybe they only say one year, alright, so they say a week — but you can't count holidays, weekends or the day you make the deposit.

Well, I'm not taking it anymore. I have checks to write. I have a $40,000 Visa bill that I have to send at least $4 or $5 toward to reduce my interest charge to only $400 this month — I NEED my money.

"Listen, bank," I say, "that check wasn't drawn on a foreign bank, unless you call Westland a foreign nation."

"Prove it," comes the response.

Well, I invariably give up. Anytime I'm in the neighborhood I stop by and check in. I give them my "secret" card, punch in my very "secret" number, and they tell me that my balance is still a secret — from me. Of course, I could always decide to call the people behind the machines so they can tell me they can't discuss this on the phone. Or I can go through the endless drive-in banking line, so they can tell me I have to go inside where the lines stretch out past the door. If the lines don't stretch out the door, you know right away that "inside" is closed.

Going "inside" is a whole different experience. You get to fill out these little paper slips from these trays at the standup counters — banks have a thing about letting anybody sit down. You know, the counters with the pens that everybody wants to steal. You know everybody wants to steal them because the bank has them fastened to the counter with chains and has video cameras to survey the area to make sure nobody has a chain cutter in their wallet. The guards inside the bank are actually there, I have learned, to protect the pens. They can't be there to protect my money because that's in Japan.

Okay, so you fill out the slip and remember to forget the first and last number of your account number and add 50 and then divide by six and add four — they will then let you talk to a real person, behind a plastic wall, of course. You slip this form through a slot in the plastic and you immediately begin to feel like a bank robber or someone passing an obscene note.

"I'm very sorry, you didn't do this right, but I'll help you out, THIS time."

A killer is loose

Life goes on in the Gloria Acres Subdivision.

Residents of this blue collar slice of suburbia go to work, attend school, raise families, root for the Tigers and yes, they eventually die. It's been the cause of death in Gloria Acres, however, that has attracted much attention during the past several months.

Charges from homeowners that the rate of cancer is abnormally high in this southeastern section of Wayne have created quite a stir here. Speculation has reached monumental proportions, far outweighing any scientific evidence to back claims of a cancer epidemic.

Ever since Ron Hames, a liver cancer patient and 20-year resident of Grant Street, went public with his concerns regarding the rate of cancer in the neighborhood, Gloria Acres has been awarded celebrity status.

Print and electronic media jumped on the story, of course, and the City Council brought in officials from the Wayne County Health Department and the Michigan Cancer Foundation to study the matter. National radio stations contacted Hames for interviews as did Ted Turner's news network.

Everyone, it seems, has a theory to solve the case of the Gloria Acres cancer. During the course of covering this story, I've received phone calls or visits from an amateur dows-er, a former Gloria Acres homeowner who now lives in England, a concerned citizen in Minnesota, a house buyer concerned about locating in Gloria Acres and two longtime Wayne residents who recall the alleged dumping of carcinogenic materials even before the subdivision was developed in the 1950's.

Hames, a sincere man, has attempted to get some answers. At a public hearing last March, Hames, who lost his wife Dorothy, to lung cancer, claimed to have uncovered, with the help of neighbors, some 75 cases of cancer in a three-block area, prompting him to declare, "The average layman can tell that something's wrong."

Residents conducted informal surveys with conflicting results. Opportunists swarmed on the area selling everything from cancer insurance to purified water.

Recently the Michigan Cancer Foundation released a report that should settle things down. Based on telephone interviews for more than 200 cancer cases, officials have concluded that residents of Gloria Acres and the entire area bounded by Van Born, Venoy, Merriman and the railroad tracks are NOT at a higher risk of cancer than persons living in Wayne County or the tri-county area.

A higher rate of lung and bronchus cancer was attributed to an increased incidence of cigarette smoking.

Funny, but the media and the theorists haven't paid too much attention to cigarette smoking as an explanation.

Cancer is the number two killer only behind heart disease in Wayne County and nationwide.

The killer stalking those living in Gloria Acres is also in pursuit of each of us. Statistics tell us that this killer will be more successful than anyone cares to think about.

Those hoping for a solution through an investigation of the cancer cases in southeastern Wayne will be disappointed. But life will go on.

Pageant success

To the Editor:
I would like to thank all the following people and area businesses who helped make the Strawberry Queen Pageant a great success: Garden Fantasy of Haggerty Road for the beautiful queen roses and plants used to decorate the stage; Coy Kendall Flowers for the flowers presented each contestant; Lakewood Merchants Association and Jim Spoonamore for the purchase of the trophies.
Thanks also goes to the Van Buren Public Schools for the use of the building; the support of the Chamber of Commerce and the Strawberry Growers Assoc., Belleville B.P.W.; Wyandotte Savings Bank; Bud's TV; P & M Associates; Ms. Moss; Hamilton Pro Hardware; Mickey's Ceramics; Lemon Tree Apartments; Bentley Nursery; Little Caesars Pizza; Brass Belle Restaurant; Guys & Gals NuYu; Pic N Pay Market; Mannings Department Store; Elias Bros.; Karen Berch; Personal Rainbows; Country Sports; Watkins Products-Mr. & Mrs. Sardonell; Rotary Club; United Methodist Church; St. Anthony Church; Trinity Episcopal Church and Belleville United Presbyterian Church.
To the 10 girls who entered and their parents, they were a great group to work with and the back stage crew was in excellent form. To the judges who had a very difficult choice to make as the contestants were all superb.

But most of all I would like to thank Mrs. Hazel Bigham for again being an outstanding "Mistress of Ceremonies".
With the help of over three hundred family, friends and well wishers, the pageant turned out to be a "Great Show."

Timing was wrong

To the Editor:
I would formally like to apologize for continuing to speak at a recent Township Board Meeting over Mr. Haener's gravel.
I have been biting my tongue for a long time about my feelings of why we are spending so much money and time on fighting dumps in our community, when I heard the same people arguing against the potential extension of West Road across the river, I felt I had had enough.
My thought, of course, is that if these people had not helped to push the Space World project out of our community all of the key I-275 interchange would not be available for toxic dumps and landfills. I feel all our prime commercial area along the expressway would either have been bought up or optioned by this time for good business development which would create an excellent tax base for our community as well as provide many job opportunities for our people.
I feel the content of my message was good, but the timing was wrong after Mr. Haener struck the gavel; I should have stopped. Again, I apologize.

Not to belabor the point, but I for one am sick and tired of hearing the same people cry and belly-ache everytime other people try to do something constructive in this community and yet do nothing themselves to make it better.

Appreciates support

To the Editor:
The purpose of this letter is two-fold.
The first is to thank the residents of Van Buren School District for their support in the recent election. I plan to do my very best to represent them on the board.
Secondly, I would like to take this opportunity to ask those same people to take their support one step further — by encouraging them to keep in touch with their schools, and in turn, keep in touch with me ... letting me know how we can work together to improve our system. Thank you.

Positive view

To the Editor:
All of us working with the Inkster Comprehensive Services Program for the Elderly were thrilled with the article written by Tom Mooradian in the Ledger Star.

He wrote with such a positive view point that it has given us all a real lift. It has made us feel maybe we're doing something right after all. We are most appreciative.

Bowling for charity

To the Editor:
On May 4th J.C. Penney Westland sponsored a March of Dimes bowling tournament for the fight against birth defects. The Special Event was held at Sabatini's Livonia Lanes. The March of Dimes trophies for high series were won by Edna Alford of Garden City and Tom Bourgeois of Detroit.

Twenty-two sponsored bowlers had a total of 343 pledges. Pledges were made by the pin, by the game or by a flat donation. It was a real community effort by a lot of caring people for a great cause.
A 50/50 drawing was held as part of the fund-raiser. We would like to thank Thomas C. Mooney of Westland for printing the tickets, Tom Doty of Redford for handling the drawing and Dan McClearen, manager of housewears, for donating his winnings to the March of Dimes.
Thanks also go out to Paul Sabatini for his help and special rate, Kay Laszyca for starting the Special Event with her announcements, Betty Dowell and Tom Bourgeois for handling the high game jackpots. Thank you Barbara Skaggs, Sara Martz, Bill Pummil for your co-ordinating and Mr. J. Glyshaw, store manager, for donating Detroit Tiger baseball tickets.

Thanks go out to all the bowlers, local business people, sponsors, supporters and friends who made the special night a Special Event. Through your efforts we were able to collect $1,315.

"Oh, thank you, oh magnificent one," I say ... "Can you please in your divine wisdom, tell me Oh Great One, what is my bank balance. I have confidence in you. You can do it. Give it to me. Tell me what the numbers are. Tell me the meaning of the world BALANCE."
"I'm sorry, our computer is down right now," comes the answer.
Defeated! They have done it. I'm going home to await my next overdraft charge knowing full well that I have $552 in my account. And silently, without protest, I will allow them to "automatically" deduct the overdraft fee because, of course, they say my $552 isn't there. You bet it isn't there, it's in Tokyo where you loaned it to that little old man to buy a new rickshaw — I bet he breaks a wheel on the way home from the bank. You can bank on it.

Now, I realize paybacks are, well, difficult, lets say. But just because I write this little article venting my spleen doesn't mean they should be even more unkind to me at those machines.
Next time I might write a real serious column. I know they would really like that one. See you next week.

Editorial rebuttal

To the Editor:
I read with great interest your editorial in the (June 27) Romulus Roman regarding the issue of the sale of fireworks and the situation in Romulus. As one of five councilpersons who changed our ordinance this year, I would like to comment on a few misconceptions you have regarding this issue.
First, this headache of fireworks sales is not strictly a problem just faced within our city limits. It is a state-wide problem. Ironically, in yesterday's Lansing State Journal, an article appeared that deals with Lansing's problem with fireworks sales. And too many area municipalities face likewise. Which brings us to the main point of your editorial and my rebuttal.
If we could ban totally the sale of fireworks, legal or illegal, we would have. But we, as local officials, cannot pass laws which contradict state statute. The State of Michigan allows Class C fireworks sales. Our hands are tied.
To be sure of this premise, I called my state senator's office and talked to his staff regarding this issue. They, in turn, called the Attorney General's staff. Although no formal opinion was requested, and no in-depth research done, the person in the AG's office stated that indeed state statute could not be superseded by local ordinance in this matter.
As a public official, it would be a waste of taxpayers money to spend working on such an ordinance if challenged (which I am sure it would have been) would be struck down as unconstitutional. It would also be a waste of taxpayers' money to pay attorneys to fight a losing battle as well.
My colleagues on the Romulus City Council, Banks, Wadsworth, Bergeron, Lambert, as well as myself did what we could legally do. We acted, I believe in the best interests of our residents.

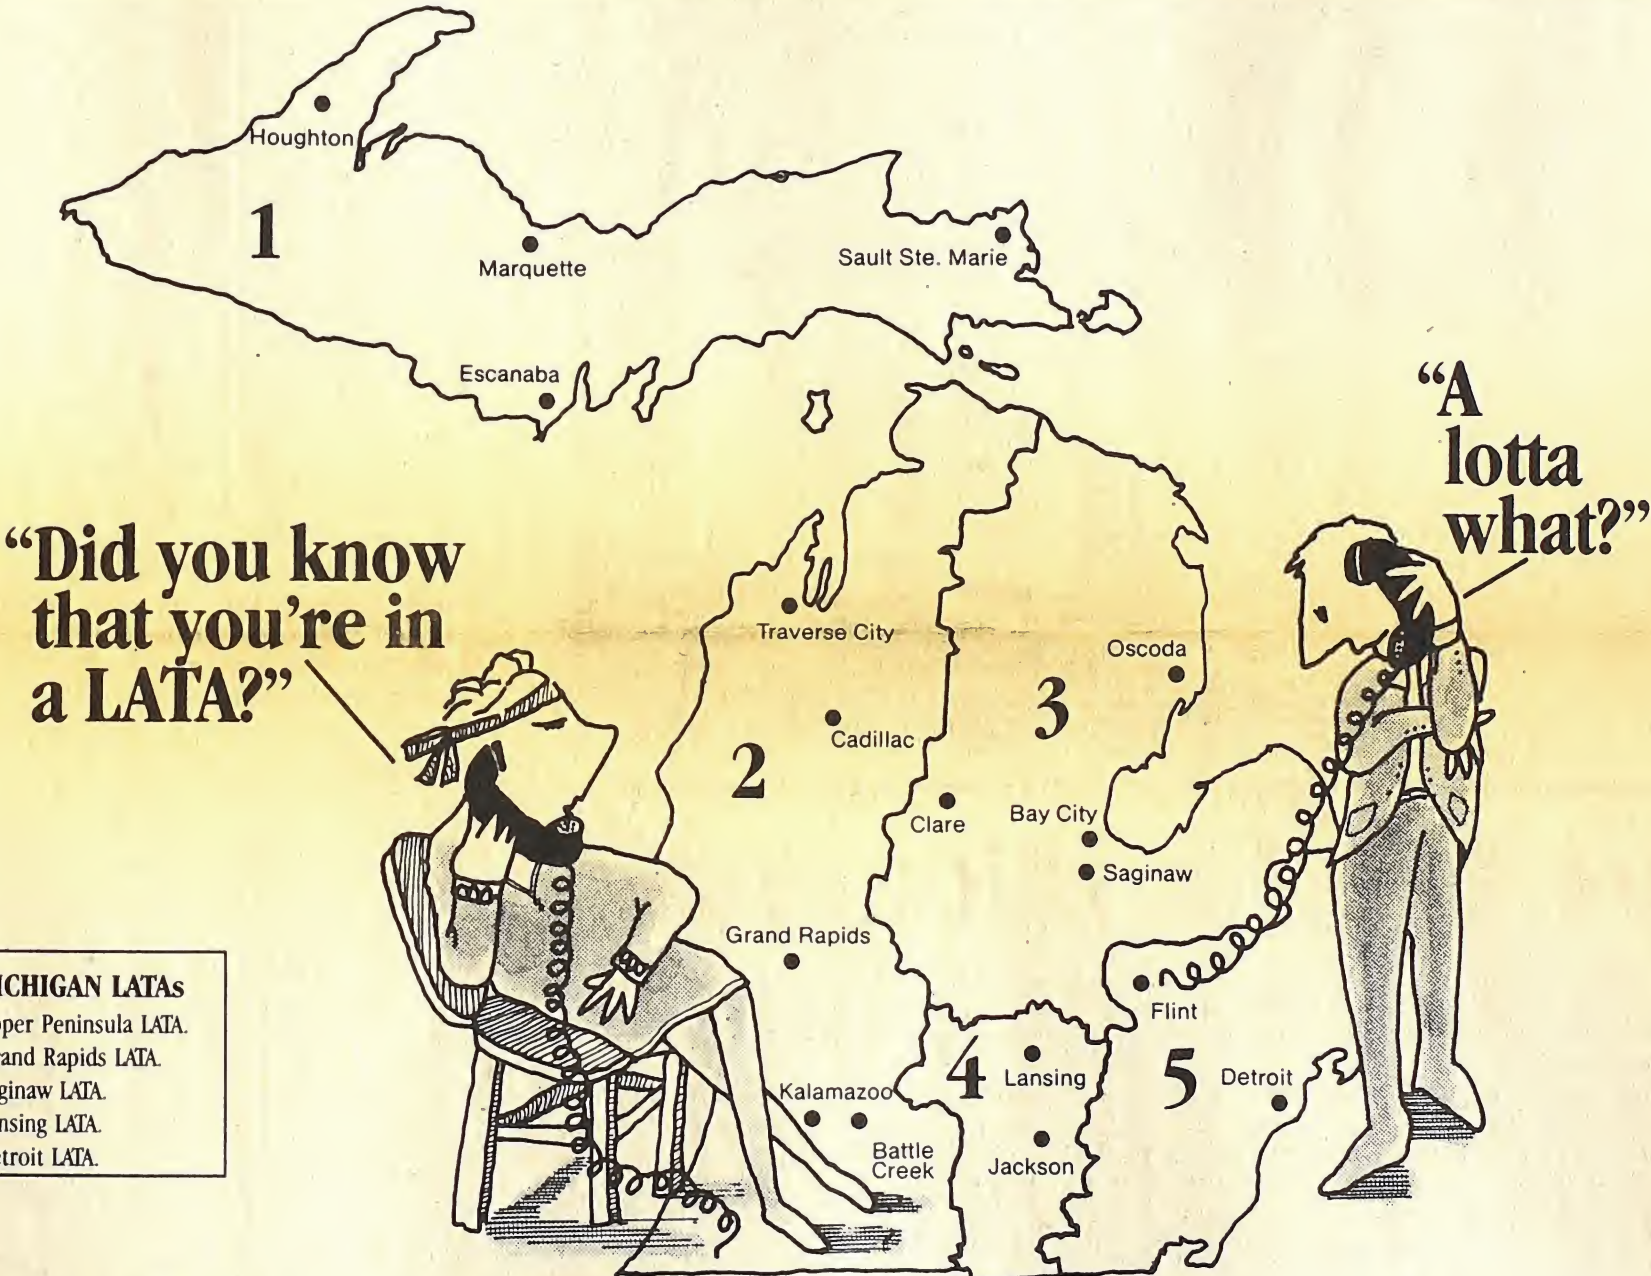

Rather than criticizing us, it would have been appropriate to give us some credit for a job well done.
BARRY BAUMANN,
Councilman
City of Romulus
Justice desired

To the Editor:
Anyone who is against the death penalty must have their head in the sand.
In New York City killed 10 people including eight children, for the next three or four decades the people of New York state will spend millions to keep this vermin in jail, is that justice?
Ten percent of those executed are found later to be innocent? I would like to see some documentation for that fairy tale.
Also who cares whether the death penalty is a deterrent? Justice is what is desired.
The naivete of the anti-gun and anti-death penalty bleeding hearts boggles the mind.

All about LATAs, long distance calling, and Michigan Bell discounts.

LATA is a telephone term that's new to all of us.

Explaining that LATA stands for Local Access Transport Area doesn't help much, but LATAs are really very simple. They're telephone service areas. There are five LATAs in which Michigan Bell provides telephone service.

LATAs and long distance calling.

If you look at the map, you will see the five Michigan LATAs, including the LATA you are in. Now here's how LATAs work: When you place a long distance call from one LATA to another telephone number within the same LATA, Michigan Bell can carry the call for you over its own network. When you place a call from one LATA to another LATA, either in Michigan or another state, it will be handled by the long distance company that provides that service to you (not Michigan Bell).

For example, if you call from Detroit to Flint (two cities within the same LATA), Michigan Bell will still be able to handle the call as in the past. But if you call from Detroit to Traverse City (from a city in one LATA to a city in a different LATA), a long distance company other than Michigan Bell will carry the call. As you may know, there are now a number of different companies you may choose from to provide your long distance service.

Your long distance bill(s).

When you receive your Michigan Bell telephone bill, you'll find a page that lists your long distance calls handled by Michigan Bell. You may also find another page that lists long distance calls handled by other companies. This is because Michigan Bell may provide billing services for other long distance companies. Or you may receive a separate long distance bill directly from the company you've selected to handle your long distance calls.

Long distance discount periods.

Michigan Bell continues to offer discounts on direct-dialed long distance calls within each of the five LATAs. We suggest you save the chart below as a reminder of the times when you save 30% to 50% off the Day Full Rate.

NOTE: When you begin a call during one rate period, your call will be charged at that rate; however, should that call pass into a different rate period, your charges will change to the rate of the new period. For example, a weekday call that begins 10 minutes before 5 p.m. and ends 10 minutes after 5 p.m. will be billed at the full rate for the first 10 minutes and will be billed at the 30% discount rate for the last 10 minutes.

Save up to 50% on direct-dialed long distance calls. Schedule for direct-dialed long distance calls within Michigan LATAs.

During the Night and Weekend Discount Periods, you pay 50% less than the Day Full Rate Charge for direct-dialed calls within each of the Michigan LATAs.

More long distance discounts.

If you make a lot of direct-dialed long distance calls within 30 miles of your calling center and within your LATA, you may be interested in Circle Calling Service. By subscribing to this service, you get additional discount calling periods during which you can save 30% over the long distance rates in effect at the time of your call. The discount applies even when regular long distance discounts are in effect. No installer visit is necessary for Circle Calling.

We suggest you take a close look at the various Michigan Bell services available to you. At Michigan Bell, we're always ready to help in the selection of the service that's right for you.

Facts down the line. We suggest that you watch for further informational messages in your newspapers and in your monthly telephone bills. Because your telephone business office is busily engaged in normal day-to-day telephone service matters, we are providing this toll-free number as a source for answers to the questions you may have about your changing telephone company.

master, Martha L. Wensko recommends the following options:

Travelers can have mail kept safely for their return by asking someone they trust — a friend or neighbor — to check their mailbox everyday and hold the mail.

They can arrange for the Post Office to hold delivery of mail for up to 30 days. "Contact the Post Office to complete the appropriate form," says Wensko, "and remember to notify the Post Office promptly upon your return to resume normal delivery."

If they prefer, travelers can arrange for mail to follow on their travels, for up to 90 days, by informing the Post Office where to forward the mail for a specified time, after which it will be held for their return. Says Wensko, "Be sure to instruct the motel, hotel or home you are visiting to forward any mail that arrives late to your new travel address."

Wensko also suggests travelers in the U.S. buy stamps in advanced in case a Post Office isn't conveniently located and, when possible, to deposit mail in business district collection boxes, which have more frequent and late pick-ups. Persons traveling abroad will require postage stamps of the country from which they mail.

Wensko notes that experienced travelers take along pre-addressed envelopes, postal card and labels including that all important ZIP Code for their correspondence. "This saves time and helps keep addressing legible and accurate," she says.

just married

Remus--Johnston marry

St. Anthony's Catholic Church in Belleville provided the backdrop for the May 18 nuptial of Kathryn A. Remus of Belleville and Norman A. Johnston of Ypsilanti.

The bride is the daughter of Ann C. Remus of Belleville and the late Jerome F. Remus. The groom is the son of Lura Johnston of Plymouth and the late Hazen Johnston.

Approximately 150 guests were in attendance for the double ring ceremony, officiated by Rev. Raymond Skoney. Baskets of pink roses and white carnations with baby's breath decorated the church for the wedding.

Nickie Sutfin, accompanied by organist Beatrice Lazar, performed "The Rose," "The Wedding Song" and "That's the Way" during the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Michael Remus of Dallas, Texas, wore a gown of chiffon with re-embroidered Chantilly lace, featuring a Queen Anne neckline with accents of silk venise lace, seed pearls and sequins. The full Bishop sleeves were accented by beaded buttons with loops and appliques scattered throughout the sleeves. The skirt of the gown had a "pick-up" illusion in the front done with puffed appliques of lace, satin bows and chiffon flowers. The laced back also had the beaded buttons with loops down the center and chiffon flowers at the natural waistline. Panels of satin decorated the cathedral-length train, outlined with lace on a scalloped edge.

Her veil was of silk venise lace with seed pearls and sequins on the Juliet cap. It was trimmed in a schiffle lace pattern on a scalloped edge, falling to the fingertips.

The bride carried a silk flower cascade bouquet of pink roses, white carnations and lilies of the valley, with white satin ribbon accents and streamers.

The bride asked Brenda Eckerly of Ypsilanti, a friend, to serve as her matron of honor. She wore a pink floor-length gown of chiffon over taffeta, with baby's breath accents in her hair. She carried a nosegay of pink and white carnations, baby's breath and matching pink satin ribbon streamers.

Serving as bridesmaids were Cindy Bowerman of Taylor, and Linda Schlund of Belleville, friends of the bride. Their gowns matched that of the honor attendant in style in a rose color. They also wore baby's breath in their hair and carried nosegays of rose and white carnations, baby's breath and matching rose-colored satin ribbon streamers.

Flowergirl for the ceremony was Julie Bowerman, 7, the daughter of Cindy Bowerman. The ringbearer was David Eckerly, 8, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Eckerly. Julie wore a pale pink chiffon dress, trimmed with white ruffles. She wore a wreath of pink and white miniature carnations and baby's breath in her hair and carried a basket of pink sweetheart roses and white mini-carnations, with baby's breath.

The groom asked his friend, Kelly McCrystal of Ypsilanti, to serve as his best man. Ushers for the service were Michael Eckerly of Ypsilanti, friend of the groom, and David Remus, brother of the bride.

Mrs. Remus chose a mauve-colored gown of chiffon and wore a wrist corsage of pink miniature roses with silver ribbon to match the trim of her gown. Mrs. Johnston chose a floor-length lavender-colored chiffon gown and wore an orchid corsage.

Mr. and Mrs.

A reception for the newlyweds and 300 guests was held at the UAW Local 157 Hall in Romulus. The rehearsal dinner, given by the groom's parents, was held at Woodruff's Grove in Ypsilanti.

The couple have delayed their honeymoon until November, when they will travel to Hawaii.

The new Mrs. Johnston is a graduate of Belleville High School and currently is employed by General Motors Warehousing & Distribution in Belleville.

Her husband, a graduate of Ypsilanti High School, is employed by Whittaker & Gooding Company in Ypsilanti.

Theodore's

New owner offers quality family dining

By DENNIS NIEMIEC
Managing Editor

Nobody can accuse Theodore Karadimos of taking the easy way out.

In three short months he has transformed a down-and-out restaurant into an impressive family dining establishment. The turnabout is startling.

Theodore's, located at 25935 Michigan Ave. near Beech Daly in Inkster, has all the qualities one looks for in a family restaurant. Thanks to a $50,000 remodeling project, visitors dine in a clean, cheery atmosphere with a bright, navy blue color theme. The prices will fit anyone's budget for breakfast, lunch or dinner.

Omelettes are served any time and feature three eggs and an assortment of ingredients — the Louie's omelette has chicken livers, onions and cheese; Lisa's, an Italian mixture with mozzarella cheese; Matt's, ham, cheese, onions and green peppers; Dino's, corned beef, onions and cheese, and Mina's, turkey, ham and cheese. Approximately 20 different omelettes are offered at prices averaging $3, including hash browns, toast and jelly.

Another breakfast special, available from 6 a.m. until 11 a.m., is the "Super Deal" offering of two eggs, bacon, sausage or ham, hash browns, toast and jelly for $1.99.

An assortment of sandwiches and salads dot the luncheon menu with daily soup and sandwich combinations featured for $1.99.

For dinner Karadimos recommends a number of entrees, including veal cutlets ($3.95), shish kabob ($3.75), barbeque chicken ($4.35), and barbeque slab of ribs ($9.40). Salad and choice of potato also are provided.

Such freshly made desserts as peach cobbler, blueberry and sweet potato pies complete the meal. A children's menu offers various selections which include beverage for $1.99.

"All I want to do is get the people in here one time," explained Karadimos, who was born and raised in Greece, "because once they see how we operate, they'll come back. We don't cut corners ... we do it right the first time."

"Nobody beats our prices. My feeling is that if we give the customer good service and good food at a good price, the customer will respond."

Although only 24 years of age Karadimos is no stranger to the restaurant business. He spent some six years working every job imaginable at establishments owned by his family. Karadimos earned a degree in business/marketing from the Detroit College of Business and is putting his education and experience to good use at Theodore's.

"I'm here almost all the time," said Karadimos, no stranger to the 18-hour workday. "I believe in getting personally involved."

Theodore's is open from 6 a.m. until 11 p.m. Sunday through Thursday and 24 hours on Friday and Saturday. A 10 percent discount is given to all senior citizens. Carryouts are available by calling the restaurant at 562-1188.

A $50,000 facelift has created a new atmosphere at Theodore's in Inkster.

Flashback

Jodi Cooper and Lewan Alexander will appear in "Flashback!," a children's musical that involves a preceptive look at childhood experiences. It will be performed July 11 through 26 at the Hilberry Theatre in Detroit. Matinees are scheduled at 1 p.m. Mondays and 10:30 a.m. Tuesdays through Thursdays. Ticket information can be obtained by calling the box office at 577-2972.

Fashionable Teenagers win in 'style'

Three students at Sherry's Academy of Dance in New Boston walked away with honors at the recent modeling pageants in the state.

Kecia Rhodes

Bree and Kecia found their hard work in classes at the academy pay off at the pageants sponsored through the North American Pageant System.

Jerry, a student at Belleville South Junior High School, was first runner-up in the 14-16 age division of the Mr. Michigan pageant and was also selected as Mr. Photogenic.

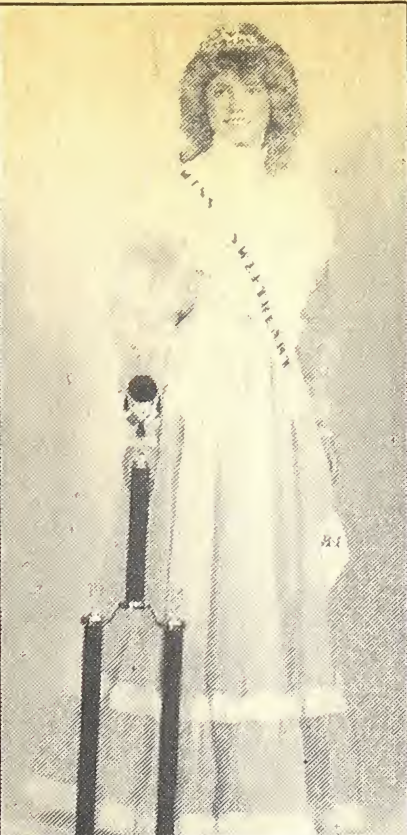

He qualified for the pageant by placing as first runner-up in the Mr. Southeast Michigan Pageant in straight modeling and first runner-up in fashion, or free style, modeling.

Bree, a student at Elwell Elementary School, was a state finalist in the Little Miss Michigan pageant, after winning the Miss Sweetheart of 1984 in the 11-13 age group in competition in Ann Arbor in February.

Kecia also was a state finalist in the pageant, after winning first runner-up in the Miss Sweetheart for 1984 competition for the 14-16 age group and second runner-up in the fashion modeling competition. She is a student at Belleville High School.

They are the son and daughters of Dusty and Brinda Rhodes of Belleville, and according to their mother, they entered the competitions because "they enjoy modeling," although it appears that only Kecia may pursue a career in fashion modeling.

Kecia and Bree, who want to

Bree Rhodes

Jerry Rhodes

be an orthodontist, have been in modeling classes for two years, while brother Jerry took up their interest just a year ago.

"They started to go to modeling classes," explained their mother, "and one thing led to another. We were really pleased with how well they did, especially Jerry, whose only been taking classes for a year."

Rhodes thinks her offspring may continue their interests in modeling as "a side job," and will keep them involved in it "as long as they enjoy doing it."

Jerry, by virtue of his finish in the state competition is eligible for the Mr. North American Pageant, although he has yet to indicate if he will try his luck at gaining national recognition.

Patrol party

Brad Wellman of Wayne was among 650 safety patrol officers recently honored with a trip to Boblo Island for Safety Patrol Recognition Day. The Boblo bear greeted Brad, a sixth grader at Hoover Elementary School and a safety patrol captain. Various schools and the Automobile Club of Michigan co-sponsored the full-day trip, which included a boat ride, lunch and amusement rides.

Spock's father lands

By STEVE O'LEARY
ANP Staff Writer

They were back in Romulus this past weekend. People dressed in black robes and pointed ears, wearing masks that evoke anything but human images, even a few that appeared to be wearing brown shag rugs. What was it? Why, a Star Trek convention, what else?

While more than 1,000 people mingled among dealers, bickering over prices of everything from tribbles to original scripts, Star Trek fever was running rampant through the two-day affair. It took a special guest appearance by Mark Lenard, who portrays Spock's father, Sarek in the film "Star Trek III: The Search for Spock," as he also did in the television series, to cool things off.

Perhaps it was a homecoming of sorts, for Lenard also played a Romulan in the series, a race that originates, naturally, in Romulus.

Lenard is no stranger to the screen who used Star Trek as a jumping off point; rather, he is one of the most established actors ever to work "where no man has gone before." He acted in two Academy-Award winning motion pictures — "Annie Hall" and "The Greatest Show On Earth," as well as "Hang 'em High." He took time out not only to answer questions from the large audience gathered to hear him speak, but also from an Associated Newspaper reporter, one often referred to as "Spaced."

Will there be a Star Trek IV, and if so will you be in it?

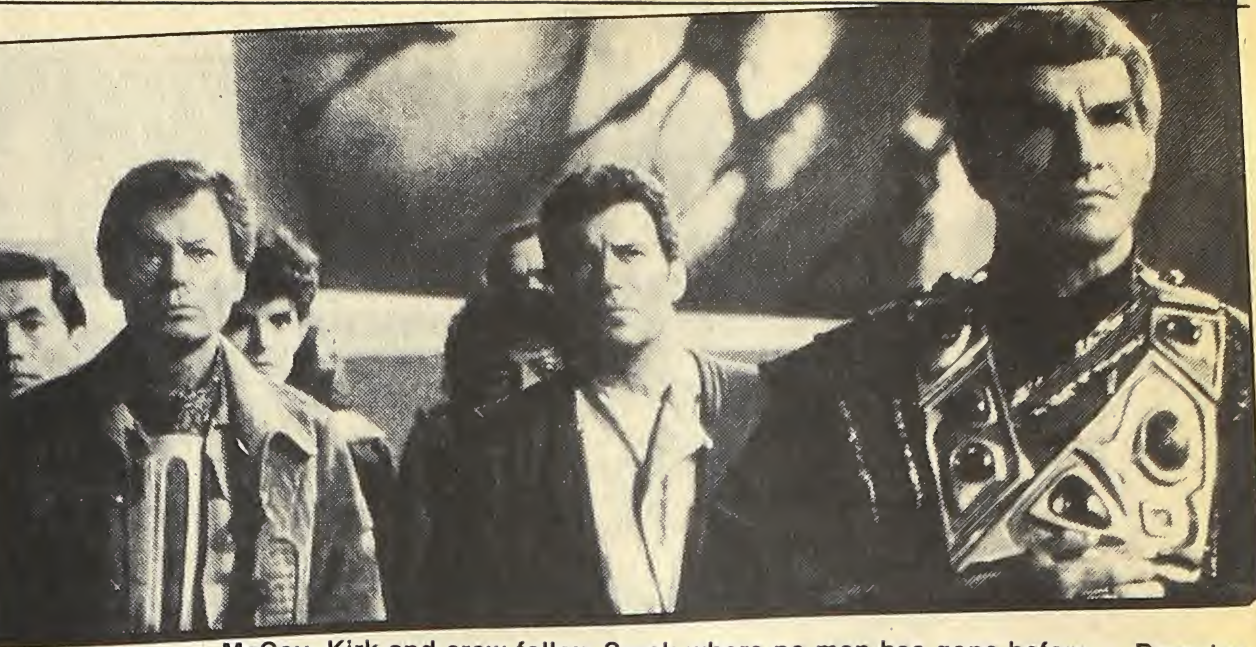

I wish I knew the answer to that. I understand they haven't decided on a story yet, so whether or not I'll be in it I don't know for sure. I am signed for the next movie, as are all the other actors and actresses. Walter Koenig (Chekov) is a good friend of mine, and through his connections at Paramount Pictures he found out that we would begin shooting in six months. That was five months ago, so it's not true. Now, he tells me that the latest word is we'll start shooting next April, with Christmas of 1985 as a release date.

Will Leonard Nimoy again be directing?

There is some talk of him not only directing and acting in it, but of co-writing the script as well. He handled both the actors and the technical aspects of directing extremely well in my opinion.

How were things with William Shatner on the set. When Koenig was in town, he had a few unpleasant things to say

I've always thought that Bill Shatner held the series together. In the motion pictures, well, he has a tendency to ... I don't know how to put it ... he's a little nasty at times to some of the other characters, though he always seemed to treat me with respect. Bill feels obligated to discuss every scene he's in, which is OK sometimes, but he does it for every scene. On this film, "Search For Spock," there was a scene involving Spock — my "son" — and myself, and neither I nor Bill thought it sounded right. We went to Nimoy and said "a Vulcan wouldn't say that," to which he replied "I know a little about Vulcans, too," which I answered in a very fatherly tone "Yes, but who taught you all you know?"

McCoy, Kirk and crew follow Sarek where no man has gone before — Romulus.

How does it feel to be the only actor to play all three alien types on Star Trek, Vulcan, Romulan and Klingon?

My first west-coast television role was the Romulan commander, so that was special to me. Prior to that, I was in New York doing a soap opera. I was in "Another World," playing the part of a friendly — too friendly — gynocologist named Ernest Gregory. As for playing a Klingon, as I did in the first Star Trek film, that was Gene Roddenberry's idea. There was no part for Sarek, but he wanted to use me. I'll tell you another thing, I never got parts because of my roles on Star Trek. Everyone thought I really had green skin and pointed ears.

If Sarek returns in the next film, might Jane Wyatt also reprise her role of your human wife?

Yes, I think if she was offered a good role, if she liked the script, she'd do it. I'll tell you a story about her. When we were husband and wife on the one episode of the series, we only saw each other in make-up, where they made me look much older than I was — after all, Sarek was 105.2 years old! Anyway, one time I was in the parking lot and saw her, so I said hello. She looked at me as if wondering who the young guy trying to pick her up was, so I yelled "It's me, your husband!" She looked at me as if I was crazy!

A lot of people are wondering if Star Trek will survive without the Enterprise, which was destroyed in the latest film.

I think that Star Trek III is the closest yet to what people call "real" Star Trek of all the films. Will it survive without the Enterprise? Let's wait and see ...

Mark Lenard portrays Sarek, the Vulcan father of Spock, in Paramount Pictures' "Star Trek III: The Search for Spock." Lenard originated the role of Sarek in a 1967 episode of the original "Star Trek" series, entitled "Journey to Babel."

YFU: Sports across the ocean

TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

Rodd Wohlfeil is a gifted athlete whose name has appeared on these pages frequently, especially during the swim season.

The 18-year-old Cherry Hill High student, who was named All-Area and All-State from Coach Deborah Karabees' championship swim team, has been selected to represent the United States in swimming this summer in the country of Italy. The program that provides this exchange of athletes and students is "Youth for Understanding."

"YFU" is one of the oldest and largest youth exchange programs in the world. More than 100,000 students have taken part in this international exchange since its founding in 1951.

And, as we all know, most programs cost money.

"The cost of the program per individual is $1,500 dollars and it is Rodd's goal, with the help of his family, to raise all or most of the fee so he can participate in this athletic endeavor," says Cherry Hill coach Debbie Karabees.

Coach Mike Payton, who was selected head coach of the SFU 1984 Italy Team, points out:

"Rodd will be a member of a very talented core of young athletes who will have the opportunity to train and compete with those living in a foreign culture. This is a tremendous opportunity for growth and development. Rodd has been chosen because of his outstanding commitment to excellence in his personal and athletic lives. Rodd is a hard worker, natural and dedicated young individual."

RODD WOHLFEIL

Rodd's achievements in swimming include all Tri-River, All-Area and All-State accolades. He was also selected to swim in the Michigan-Indiana Senior Interstate Meet and was named the "Athlete of the Year" for 1983-84 by the coaches at Cherry Hill High.

Those are some of his athletic accomplishments.

Academically, Rodd is among the top students in his class. He was recently awarded the rank of Eagle Scout by the Detroit Area Council. He plans on attending the University of Wyoming in the fall on a partial athletic scholarship.

Says Jack Ammons, counselor at the high school: "Rodd is a pleasure to be around. He's a perfect example of the 'All-American boy'. The support and guidance he has received from his family have made him one of the finest young men I have worked with in my 15 years as a counselor."

To sum it all up, this nation could build more international bridges by sending young men and women abroad to meet one-on-one with their counterparts in foreign countries.

Tanks and missiles may defend our shores, but people keep the peace.

To conclude, if you wish to offer financial assistance send your checks, payable to, "Sports for Understanding/Rodd Wohlfeil, to 26860 Rochelle, Dearborn Heights, Michigan 48127 or telephone 278-8437 (the Wohlfeil residence) or 1-800-882-1001 "Sports for Understanding" for more information.

Northwest Suburban to disband in '85

Glenn, Franklin join Western Lakes

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

The oldest high school athletic and sports conference in the area will dissolve after the 1984-85 season. The Northwest Suburban Athletics League, made up of Westland John Glenn, Livonia Franklin, North Farmington, Garden City, Thurston, and Redford Union will end its 20-year affiliation in the fall of 1985.

According to Westland John Glenn and Livonia Franklin school officials, at least three of the members of the present league will join the Western Lakes Conference.

The Western Lakes, presently a 10-team conference divided into two leagues, will accept John Glenn, Franklin and North Farmington into its ranks.

Glenn and North Farmington will be aligned with Plymouth Salem, Farmington, Livonia Stevenson and Walled Lake Central in the Lakes Division, while Franklin will join the Western Division with city rival, Churchill, Farmington Harrison, Northville, Plymouth Canton and Walled Lake Western.

"I hated to see the Northwest Suburban Conference break up," said John Glenn Athletic Director Jerry Szukaitis. "It is an excellent league, but I do look forward to the Western Lakes which I believe will be a very competitive conference."

What precipitated the dissolution of the conference and the realignment of Western Lakes is the closing of Livonia Bentley this year and the unstable status of Redford Thurston. Because of the rapid decline of the student population in Livonia, the school board had decided to close Bentley and relocate its students to the remaining three high schools.

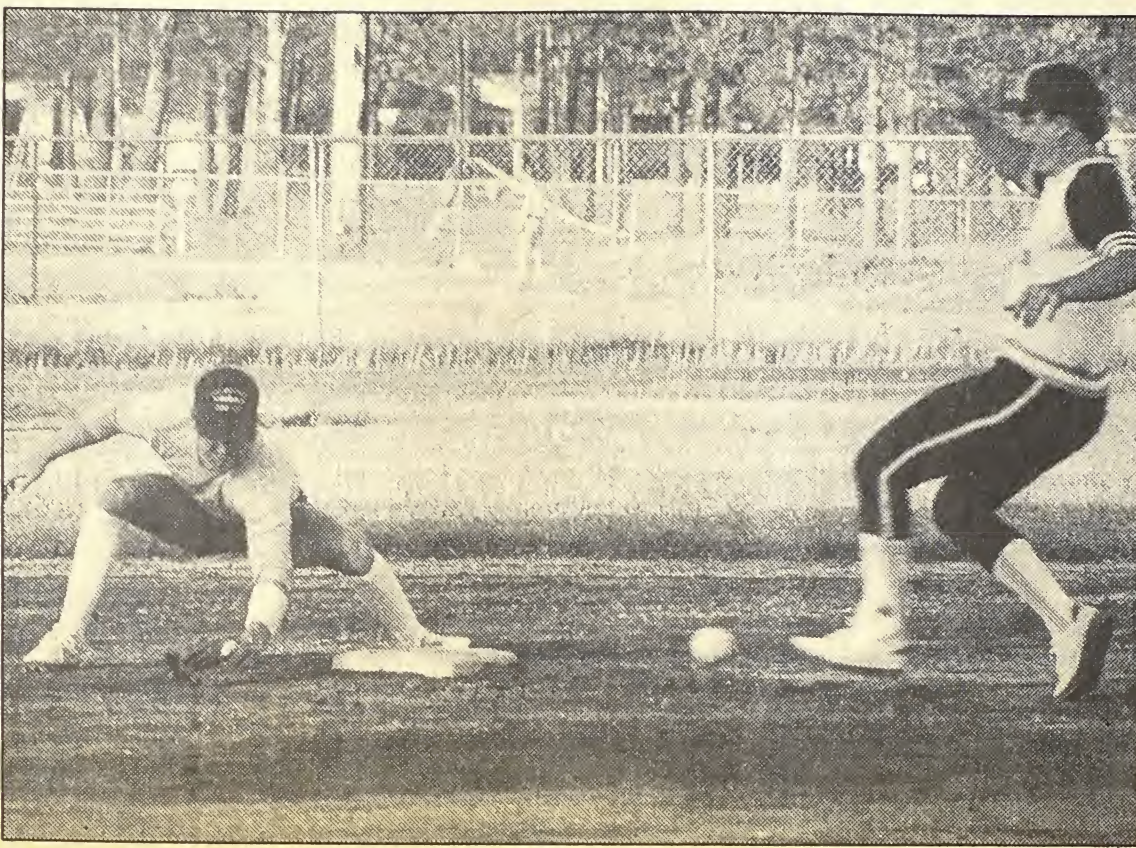

Bentley, a member of the Western Lakes, left a berth coveted by "sister schools" — North Farmington and Livonia Franklin which wanted to join the league.

Thurston, with a student population of less than 800 in the school district, will have difficulty fielding teams in the future. In fact, they may not have football at the Redford Township-based high school this year.

"Our league, in its entirety applied for membership in the Western Lakes," Szukaitis said, "and the league officials accepted the three schools."

Garden City, meanwhile, may join the Wolverine A Conference in 1985, while the fate of Redford Union and Thurston is undetermined at this time.

Paddy's Pub found the going rough last week as the previously undefeated Westland Eastern Division's pacesetters dropped three games and vacated first place to an 8-2 Levan Party Store club. Paddy's and Town & Country are deadlocked in second with identical 8-2 marks in the Class "C" title race. For league standings, turn to Page C-2.

Awards' night

Area bowlers honored

It was "Awards' Night" for the Wayne-Westland Men's Bowling Association.

And the top bowlers for the 1983-84 season took their bows and their trophies.

Twelve area bowlers attained the ultimate goal — a 300 game in the 1983-84 bowling season: Jerry Banks, Jeff Dishong, Darrall Garner, Al Gilreath Jr., Donald Lundry, Robert Schmidt, Charles Stailey, Dave Tarbet, Larry Taylor, Chris Tili, Larry Traver and Emerson Woods.

The "almost-awards" went to Rick Clack, John Dasho, Estes Dobozy, Al Gilreath Jr., Steve Soudler and Robert Steiger, who rolled 299 games. Henry Pfeifer's 298 game also was rewarded.

High series in Wayne-Westland this season was an 836, recorded by Rick Stoneburner at Super Bowl.

The 37th annual Wayne Westland City tournament champions were the Westland Sports Shop team consisting of Vern Ballard, Ed Davis, Dave Radionoff, Camiel Speener, and Donald Yates. Singles champ was George Ellison, doubles honors went to Al Bellovary and Larry Traver and all events champion was Bob Allen.

The inaugural scholarship tournament, co-sponsored by the Wayne-Westland Men's Bowling Association and Tri-City Women's Bowling Association, awarded a $1,000 scholarship to Debra Castaldini, and Joseph Potts, and a $500 to Joannie Stemple and Dean Nagle.

Bowlers needed for 'classic league'

Officials of the Western-Wayne Youth Traveling Classic League are seeking bowlers, ages 13 to 20 for 1984 bowling season.

"We're looking for young ladies who bowl in the 140 and up range and boys who can bowl in the 150 and up range for the league," said Vikki Reina, treasurer of the league.

Trials and registration will be conducted, beginning July 15 and also on July 22 and 29.

"We started out with approximately 40 bowlers a year ago," Mrs. Reina said, "and this year we're looking for about 140."

Bowlers should inquire at the following bowling lanes: Westland Bowl, Town & Country, SuperBowl, Fiesta Lanes and Wayne Bowl for further information. Also contact Harold Winters, executive director, at 595-4132, for more information.

community you represent in order to qualify for the state finals).

Additional flights will be organized only if the total number of any one community warrants them.

This year, unlike the past 24, prizes will be awarded to golfers along with the customary trophies. Trophies will be presented to the top three finishers in each of the flights. A "sudden death" playoff will be conducted to determine the trophy winner if a tie occurs. Also, the medalist or low scorer for the entire field will be awarded a trophy.

The Wayne Police Officers' Association will present a traveling trophy to the medalist of the Wayne Championship Flight. The memorial trophy is in honor of Patrolman Leonard Anderson, the first Wayne police officer slain in the line of duty.

"This year we are also going to do something different in that we're awarding gift certificates to 'the closest to the pin' on each of the two days," said Hawley.

"We've picked out the infamous 18th hole for the contest. It should be interesting," Hawley said.

A set of metal woods golf club will go to the winner, while gift certificates will be awarded second and third place finishers of the contest.

To enter a golfer should complete the entry blank accompanying this story. Along with the blank and a $30 registration fee, he should mail or drop off the forms at the Associated Newspapers, 35540 Michigan Avenue, Wayne. (Please make checks payable to Bill Hawley, tournament manager.)

NEIGHBORS & KIDS - WRITE, DON'T YELL !!

Dear Letter Writer:

I am terribly upset and furious with my neighbor. Enough is enough. Now, I don't know if she'll physically hurt my son. I sure want her to stop verbally abusing him. Besides, I want to get some things off my chest. Please help me write a letter that will get her attention.

Sincerely, SS

Dear Neighbor:

Due to recent events, I feel compelled to commit to writing the following:

During mid-April, my son and his friend were delivering their newspaper route in our apartment complex. Your son, approached my son and the boys became involved in a negative verbal exchange, during which your son called me a name (the name need not be repeated here as it is in bad taste). My son responded to your son by saying "same to you."

Two days later, again my son and his friend were delivering newspapers and you stopped your automobile and asked my son to come over to you so you could talk to him. You proceeded to say:

"You are sick in the mind."

"I am taking my kids out of public schools and putting them in parochial schools to get them away from people like you."

"I will recommend the psychiatrist that you need to see to your mother."

My son acknowledged your remarks by saying OK and he walked away.

In the afternoon of the same day, my son and his friend, were riding their bicycles in the parking area adjacent to my apartment. You pulled into the complex, parked your car and walked over to where the boys were riding. You asked my son what the definition of a (slang for prostitute) was. He replied, "I don't know." You then informed him it was "... a person that stood by the side of the street and picked up men." You then used excessive, abusive, inflammatory and offensive language, while at the same time, poking him under his eye with the bow of your sunglasses. At this point, I became aware of the confrontation as I heard your voice from the upstairs of my apartment unit. I stepped outside and asked you if there was a problem. You responded, "there certainly is." I then invited you to come into my home. Inside my home, as you know, a very unpleasant and childish, non-productive scene occurred.

Having taken a few days to allow this series of events to fit into their proper perspective and maturely evaluate the effects, I find myself in a position of being unable to predict your behavior, especially as it relates to my son's personal safety. I have reached this conclusion, based on a reflection of your demeanor and volatile reaction, coupled with repeatedly tapping your glasses on my son's face.

This letter is being written to Put You On Notice to cease and desist any contact with my son, or any other member of my family. If you wish to communicate or make contact, for any reason, I am available and will speak with you personally.

Sincerely, SS

RESOLUTION: A sensible way to handle frustration and anger. Ms. SS sent a copy of this letter to her attorney so that the neighbor would know she wasn't kidding.

Counting it up

Four students from Cheryl Sims' accounting classes at Belleville High School went to the Dearborn campus of the Detroit College of Business to take part in the Fifth Annual Accounting Contest for high school students. Those students were: Renee Colucci, Carolyn Hardrick, Jill Pence and Sarah Underwood. The Detroit College of Business hosted the event for area high school students. More than 800 young people, representing 100 high schools in the state, took the test. Two different tests were given — a beginning test for those students who had less than a year of high school accounting, and an advanced one for those who had taken additional training. All four students received Certificates of Participation for their part in the event, and two students, Jill Pence and Sara Underwood, received special recognition for high scores.

Germany or bust

Courtney Samuels, an 11th-grader at Belleville High School, has won a $400 scholarship stipend toward a planned trip to Germany this summer. Cortney and fellow classmate Richard Freysinger will be staying with German families for four weeks and will attend German schools for three weeks as part of their trip to the European country. The four-week summer program, which is supported by the American Association of Teachers of German and the West German government, allows American students of German to experience German culture through a total immersion in the day-to-day German life. This is the third consecutive year that German students from Belleville High School have participated in the cultural program.

SELLING VS. SELLING!

The case before the court is:

Whether or not it is a crime to slash an advertising budget during an economic downturn.

NO

Attorney for the advertiser points to the potential injury to the bottom line as a clear-cut motive to reduce ad expenditures. He reasons that budgets must always relate to sales and pleads self defense rather than temporary insanity for using the knife.

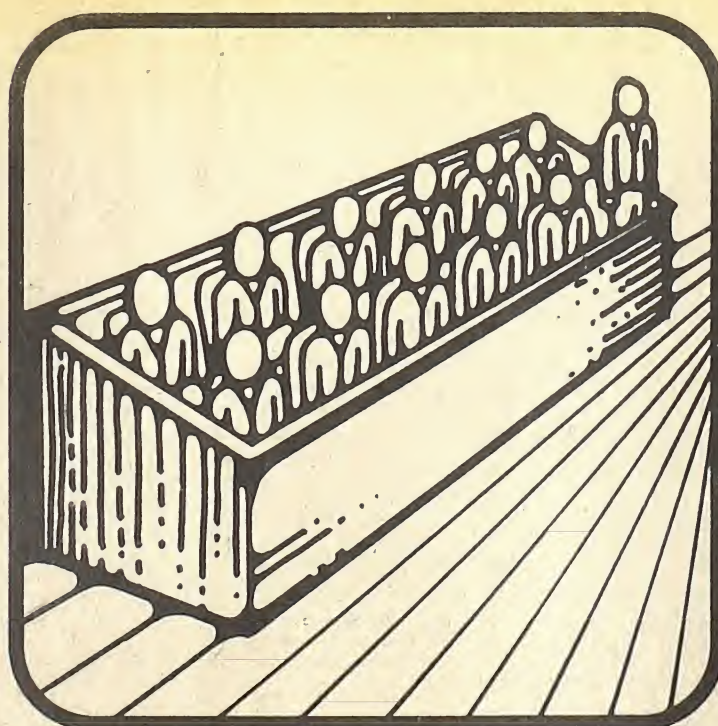

YES

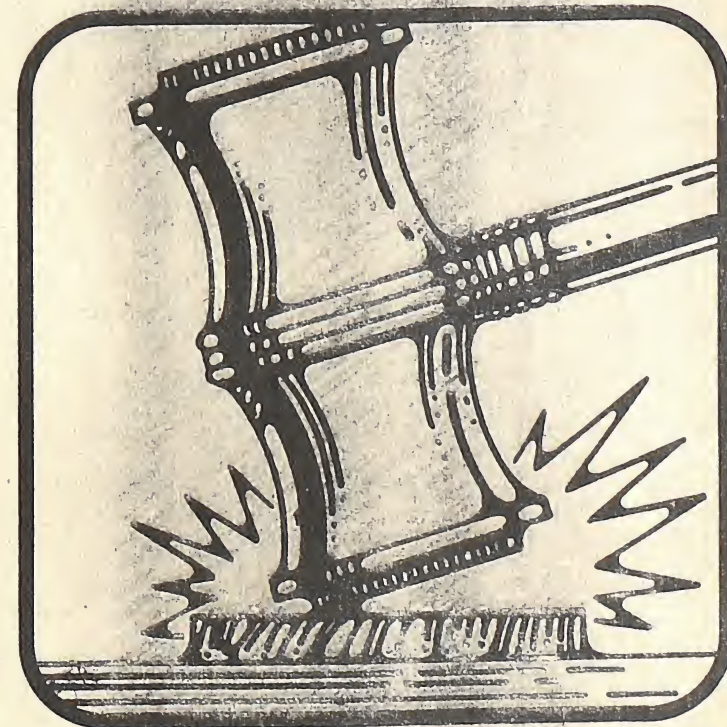

Defense attorney cites previous case of ad slashing and offers as exhibits A,B,C,D post mortems of retailers who lost their confidence in their ability to motivate consumers and move merchandise.

YES

In charging the jury, the judge states that they must decide whether advertising budget-makers should cut and run from recession talk or attack the problem with more selling ... more advertising.

THE VERDICT IS CLEAR! ADVERTISE!....

It doesn't cost...it pays!
